DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. A substitute specification in proper idiomatic English and in compliance with 37 CFR 1.52(a) and (b) is required. The substitute specification filed must be accompanied by a statement that it contains no new matter. Both the specification and the claims are hard to understand, and at times make statements ambiguous statements. For example, in claim 1, the limitations " ... the exhaust gas ... is introduceable ... and dischargeable ..." are incomprehensible. Do they mean to claim that the exhaust gas: 1) is introduced and is discharged, or that 2) it can be introduced and it can be discharged. In the latter case, the claim reads on any gas turbine with a chimney because the claim does not require for the gas to be actually discharged through the transition piece.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-19 are rejected under under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Termuehlen 5267434, that teaches the invention as disclosed and as claimed, see Figures 3 and 1, and col. 5, ll. 1-4. A gas turbine installation comprising a gas turbine, a transition piece following the diffuser, and two steam generators fed by lines 24 and 26, having heating surfaces for generation of steam, shown schematically in Fig. 1 and un-numbered. Note that the Termuehlen apparatus can be operated with the gas turbine and only one steam generator by closing louver 22 and closing either louver 24 or 26 and exhausting the exhaust gas through one discharge stack, or with the gas turbine only and without any steam generator by closing both louvers 24 and 26, opening louver 22, and exhausting the exhaust gas through the auxiliary stack. The presently sealing wall reads on closed louver 22, as it seals the gas flow path between the gas turbine and the boiler. Note that the chimney orifice is arranged in a head (i.e., top) region of the transition piece, and that the height of the chimney orifice with respect to the vertical extent of the transition piece is an obvious matter of design choice, because unlike natural convection chimneys, the claimed chimney accommodates a flow that is "pushed" through it under pressure by the gas turbine. Method claims 7-13 are rejected because the Termuehlen apparatus performs the steps of the claimed method as disclosed and as claimed.
